Geography Lesson

Chapter 1 by Story Wars

Geography is that class that is mentioned in all of those teen movies to show just what a drag high school is, how ~totally lame~, and is somewhere along the ranks of Trigonometry and Chemistry in that respect.

And you can totally agree. Your eyes are glazing over like the titular donut. What you wouldn't give for someone to break out in song and dance to interrupt the monotone of voice of your teacher, Mrs. Jackson. You swear that she's aged by five years since you first stepped into the classroom at eight AM. You're seriously going to lose it if she mentions the word "cartographer" again. There has to be some way to escape this.

What's your battle plan?

Chapter 2 by SaintSayaka

You grab the giant map off of the wall of your classroom in a swift jump and tug. The class gasps. Mrs. Jackson hasn't noticed yet, her back turned to you. The window is already open. The rest is just luck.
